Frontier Days begins Friday night

You can dance in the streets of Glencoe this weekend — along with all your friends, family, and neighbors — at the Frontier Days Festival, held Friday through Sunday. The festival gets bigger and better each year and offers big fun right here in Gallatin County.

This late-summer festival is one of the highlights of the season with live music, a car show, raffles, watermelon-eating contest, lots of games and an old-fashioned cake auction on the schedule. This is a perfect festival for the entire family and it’s easy on the wallet as all the entertainment is free!

The party will begin on Friday evening with the band Stone Free laying down the tunes.

On Saturday, the action heats up with the “Show & Shine Car Show” that will thrill auto lovers of all types. Registration for the show will be $15 and signup is 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. There will be a 50/50 “Split the Pot” each hour and $5 lottery tickets sold for two nights in Pigeon Forge, Tennessee.

A local parade will wind through Glencoe’s streets starting at 1 p.m., Saturday. It will be followed by a huge Block Party held by the Glencoe Baptist Church.

Also on Saturday, there will be lots more dancing in the streets with the band RMS performing.

Among the many contests that will be held during the festival weekend are a Cornhole tournament at 2 p.m. Saturday, a Football Toss Contest, along with bike and mower races. Raffle lovers will want to try their luck for a variety of prizes ranging from dinner for two, to tools, as well as many other items.

This will be the perfect weekend to celebrate Glencoe’s past, present, and future with friends and family. There will be something for everyone at the perfect price.

Special problems come from special election

Gov. Steve Beshear has set the special election to fill the vacancy for Geoff Davis’ 4th Congressional District seat on the same day as the general election, Nov. 6. Davis unexpectedly resigned his position last month citing a family medical concern.

The decision saves taxpayers the cost of holding the special election on a separate day. It also means the 4th District will be without a congressman for a while longer.

Republican Thomas Massie, a tea party favorite, is running against Democrat Bill Adkins, a lawyer from Northern Kentucky for the office.

The special election has brought some confusion, however, because the ballot deadlines for that election are different from those in the general election even though the elections are on the same day. The general election ballot must be certified on Sept. 10, but candidates have until Oct. 9, to file to run in the special election.

Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes has filed suit in Franklin County Circuit Court asking a judge to move up the special election filing deadline to Sept. 10, the same deadline as the general election.

Grimes said the state must send out ballots to people overseas, such as members of the military, 45 days prior to an election, so they will have time to fill them out and return them. An Oct. 9 deadline leaves only 28 days for such voters.

County named disaster area

Gov. Steve Beshear has announced that Gallatin County has been added to the growing list of Kentucky counties declared as primary drought disaster areas by the U. S. Agriculture Department.

With Gallatin added, 116 of the state’s 120 counties are either primary or contiguous disaster areas due to drought.

The designation will make farmers in Gallatin and in other counties severely affected by the drought eligible for federal assistance.

Soldiers get big welcome home party

Troops return from Gulf

Several men with Gallatin County ties were among the 225 soldiers honored Saturday when they were reunited with their families during a large welcome home celebration at the Home of Freedom ball park in Florence.

They were member of the 1204 Aviation Support Battalion (ASB), a National Guard Battalion based in Independence which had been overseas for a year. It was the last Kentucky unit to leave Iraq as U. S. troops were withdrawn in December. The soldiers were then sent to Kuwait where they provided maintenance, logistic and communications support.

The Gallatin County soldiers honored as members of the battalion include Nathan Cutter, Cody Ingram, Mark Martin and Paul Metzo.

“These soldiers served honorably,” Lt. Col. Tom Roach 1204th ASB Commander told the crowd. “From Iraq to Kuwait to Qatar to Jordan to Afghanistan, they have added to the historic legacy of the Kentucky National Guard.”

While in Iraq, the battalion’s mission was to provide logistical maintenance and signal support for military operations in the Persian Gulf region.

Emma Metzo, 5, couldn’t wait to see her father, Paul Metzo, who had been deployed for a year. He ran into his arms when she saw him. Metzo is the son of Williams Metzo of Sparta. He’s married to Amber Lawson also of Gallatin County.

Tears of joy and loving embraces were enjoyed by the crowd as the soldiers and their loves ones were reunited.

“It feels great to be home, to see trees and grass and not have sand blowing in my face all day,” said Spec. Daniel Morrison of Florence, who was eager to get back to his family as all the soldiers were. “First thing I want to do is get a nice fat steak.”

The 1204th ASB is made up of more than 600 soldiers from Kentucky, Alabama, Florida and Maryland. The unit left Kentucky August 26, 2011 and spent several weeks training in Fort Hood, Texas, before deploying to Kuwait.

“From the recovery of millions of dollars worth of equipment from Iraq to sustaining air operations in that theatre, to providing world class medical care to our troops overseas, the 1204th exceeded all expectations and showcased the Kentucky National Guard like never before,” said Maj. Gen.

Mother’s work

This and That

By Kelley Warnick
Editor

When John Zalla called last week to invite me to his farm to see a hummingbird’s nest, I couldn’t resist. John, who is a retired fish and wildlife officer, knows more about birds than anyone I know.

He has taught me the difference between Redhead and Canvasback ducks and told me where to look for Osprey along the Ohio River. I accompanied him when he released captive Ruffed Grouse and Wild Turkey and when he launched an investigation to find the person who illegally shot and killed a federally protected Red-tailed Hawk.

John lives on a farm but he’s not a farmer. Everything he grows, he raises for wildlife. He plants fields of sunflowers for the birds and acres of grain for the deer. Along the winding drive to his house are a number of Bluebird boxes and surrounding his house are feeders for birds and squirrels.

After I pulled up to his home, we walked around to the back of his house where he showed me the Ruby-throated Hummingbird’s nest. It was the size of walnut and located about ten feet from his backdoor. The nest was empty, so he invited me to have a seat on his patio to wait for the bird’s return.

“She won’t be gone long,” John said. “There’s a feeder over in the next tree.

She goes over there, gets a drink and will be back home before you know it.”

We talked about wildlife as we waited and I heard the good news that it appears the Bluebird population is recovering.

“All my boxes were full this year and that hasn’t been true for a long time,” John said. “Lack of proper habitat has threatened Bluebirds but I think they’re doing better.”

I also learned what an amazing animal the Ruby-throated Hummingbird is.

John said the female lays one or two eggs in her tiny nest she builds by herself and she raises the young with no help from the male. The nest consists of scales from buds and is attached to a branch by spider’s silk. Lichens camouflage the outside of the nest and the inside is carefully lined with soft dandelion, cattail or thistle down. The pea-sized eggs hatch within three weeks.

The most incredible aspect of the hummingbird is its migration flight. Even though a bird weighs about an eighth of an ounce, it flies great distances to spend the winter in Mexico or Central America. Almost all will make a non-stop flight over the Gulf of Mexico that will take about 20 hours. Males are the first to leave in the fall, females go next and the juveniles are the last to leave at the first frost.

After we talked for a few minutes, mama hummingbird returned and I got my picture.

It turned out to be a special day for me. It was exciting to capture the amazing hummer on her nest with my camera and a pleasure to have a good excuse to enjoy nature’s wonders with an old friend once again.

Emma Metzo, 5, was thrilled to be back in the arms of her father, Paul Metzo, last Saturday afternoon. Metzo’s National Guard battalion had just returned home after a year in the Persian Gulf. Photo by Kathleen Niece

Our Readers Write

French is right about our flag at the Overlook

Dear Editor:

Thanks to Denny French for his Letter to the Editor last week regarding the flag at our Overlook at Highways 127 and 42.

First, let me say that the Boy Scouts and all the contributors to this wonderful project should be commended. It's a wonderful welcome to our county and a beautiful place for a picnic or just to watch the river traffic. Well done to all.

There is strict protocol for flying the American flag at half staff. Also, as Mr. French mentioned, if the flag cannot be properly illuminated at night, then it must be lowered at dusk and raised at sunrise.

The protocol to allow illumination was changed many years ago. It used to be that artificial lighting was not acceptable to leave a flag hoisted at night.

It's amazing how many times I've witnessed flag protocol violated even when the flag is displayed in front of government buildings.

Having the flag fly at our Overlook is a great display, but proper flag protocol should be followed and respected.

Thank you to all who work so hard to make the Overlook a signature place in our county.

Children should be screened before kindergarten

Dear Editor:

Schools in Kentucky recognize the value of screening children entering kindergarten to determine the child's development and help them master kindergarten content.

Kentucky is taking steps to implement one common kindergarten readiness screener who will provide valuable information to help the school serve each child appropriately and provide critical information to home communities so they can evaluate their efforts to ensure all children come to school with the foundation necessary to be successful early on.

This collaborative effort between the Governor's Office of Early Childhood and the Kentucky Department of Education is directly tied to the recommendations of the Governor's Task Force on Early Childhood Development and Education and the Transforming Education in Kentucky Task Force.

The screener provides an important baseline for a system of measurement that each elementary teacher will utilize as they strive to take a child toward the goal of being proficient readers.

The importance of early childhood development and education cannot be overstated. The brain grows more rapidly in the first three to five years than at any other time in life. If children who need extra help are identified early, the chances that they will need special education services in the future are lessened.

While Kentucky continues to make significant strides in education, the state still has work to do. According to Education Week's 2012 "Quality Counts" report, 13 states ranked above Kentucky in overall grades and scores. Of these 13 states, 10 have kindergarten assessments in development or already in place.

Investments such as the common kindergarten screener result in a significant return to our state through higher levels of education, less need for remediation and a stronger workforce.

Stop pollution at Mill Creek

Dear Editor,

There was once a beautiful stream where the beavers built their dams, where deer would drink and play, where ducks would swim the day away, and all the while, the bald eagle watched from his nest.

Now, the beaver are dead, the dams are gone, and the eagle has left.

Think I'm talking about some big city far away? I'm not. I'm talking about the Mill Creek in Owen County, just before it empties into the Kentucky River.

It's the place where people chasing a dollar are running mud trucks, filling the creek with gas and oil and antifreeze from broken radiators.

If this concerns you, contact Jeff Malsi at 859-525-4923 with the Division of Water in Florence. Case number 2347440.

Please — the environment needs all the help it can get and so do its supporters.

Sincerely,
Ernest Robinson

New law to fight drug abuse could be harmful

Politicians in Frankfort who still believe government edicts can deliver us from the scourge of prescription drug abuse are once again approaching the issue with a butcher knife instead of a scalpel.

Kentucky House Bill 1, which passed during the special legislative session earlier this year, forces doctors to use a government database called the Kentucky All Schedule Prescription Electronic Reporting system (KASPER) before prescribing controlled substances for their patients.

Rather than limiting drugs actually being abused — like hydrocodone and oxycontin — the state statute requires doctors to take at least five steps before prescribing a variety of drugs.

And it doesn't matter whether the patient waiting for treatment is a 6-year-old with a broken arm, a mother giving birth for the first time or a middle-aged drug addict. HB 1 treats all patients the same.

Before prescribing the much-needed medication, the doctor must:

- Obtain a complete medical history and conduct — and document in medical records — a thorough physical of the patient.
- Search for all available information on the patient via the slow and clunky KASPER government database to ensure the patient — even the 6-year-old child — is not a drug addict.
- Create a "written treatment plan." Don't confuse this with writing the actual prescription — that comes multiple steps later.
- Discuss the risks of prescribing the medication, and obtain consent to do so from the patient.

•Finally, the doctor can order a couple of pain pills.

It's ludicrous. Not only must all patients be probed — reminiscent of how elderly passengers are treated like ex-cons by the TSA at airports these days — this one-size-fits-all mandate will result in needless delays in patient care.

Before being allowed to deliver medication to a child experiencing the severe pain of tonsillitis, for example, professional physicians must put up with the same kind of handholding we might force on a toddler learning to be potty-trained.

The same story could be told for a man with appendicitis, a mother in labor, or a senior citizen with kidney stones.

The KASPER process is likely to take at least 20 agonizing minutes to patients already in pain. Could that be the difference between life and death in extreme cases?

Still, the worst part of HB 1 goes beyond the needlessly long waits of permanently substituting ice cream cones for the miracle of pain relief when Kentucky kids are being treated for tonsillitis.

It turns doctors who fail to follow its mandates — even for in-patients under their direct care 24/7 — into criminals.

Do the politicians, who themselves are busy stealing our liberties by overregulation and malignant laws, ever consider the impact of such a mandate beyond the next election?

One of the Kentucky Medical Association's chief concerns with the new law is that doctors — spooked by the risk of losing their license — will refuse to prescribe medication even when their professional opinion calls for such treatment.

The potential of being sent to prison may not be worth the risk of making a mistake in KASPER protocol — leaving those patients depending on their doctor in severe pain.

Soldiers

More than 80 percent of the battalion are "citizen soldiers" meaning they will now return to non-military jobs or school said Gen. Tonini.

He praised the soldiers' families for their support.

"I've met a lot of your relatives and I got to understand why this unit's so great," Tonini told the troops. "It begins with the people behind you."

Lt. Col Roach, the battalion's commander, urged families to band together as the soldiers transition back to non military life.

"Your soldiers are different now," Roach told the group. "They are more focused, more disciplined. Their leadership skills are better and they are better followers. You all have made sacrifices. Please work together to figure out the new normal you now have."

Election

Continued from page 1 the rights of military voters," said Lynn Sowards Zellen, spokeswoman for the Kentucky Secretary of State. "It's the secretary's belief that it's not conscionable to exclude them from the Democratic process when they're risking life and limb to protect it."

County clerks say they would have to send out two absentee ballots, one for the general and one for the special election, if the names on both ballots can't be certified on the same day. Gallatin County Clerk Tracy Miles says that would be costly and confusing.

The two elections might cause some initial confusion but shouldn't disrupt the election, said Kevin Sell, Republican chairman of the 4th Congressional District.

"Will it be an inconvenience because people have to fill out two ballots? Sure." Snell said. "Will it cause a massive upheaval? No. The governor showed wisdom by calling it on Nov. 6.

The Franklin Circuit Court held a hearing, Monday, on the issue but a judge has yet to rule.

Adding to the confusion, the special election will appear on ballots under the old District boundaries set in 2002 and not the new ones set this year based on Census data.

That won't affect Gallatin or other Northern Kentucky counties. It will affect counties on the district's borders where some precincts may have the general election but not the special election and vice versa.

Leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties in the 4th District expect the same candidates, Massie and Adkins, will be chosen in both the special and general elections. They are also reminding members of both parties they will have to vote twice, once in each election.

She began her career teaching preschool in 1980 and operated two preschools and childcare centers, one in Warsaw and one in Carrollton, for 21 years. In 2001, she became an enrolled First Step provider and began an agency, Early Impressions, that provided service coordination and developmental intervention to children in eight counties of Northern Kentucky. In 2008, she became one of the Technical Assistants for the First Steps Northern Kentucky Point of Entry. She accepted the position she currently holds in 2009.

Nominations for the prestigious award were taken from parents, service coordinators, therapists, and early interventionists with whom Mrs. Judy has worked. Volleyball coach sees progress

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter
The volleyball team is still looking for its first win of the season, but coach Brian Gognat is sees progress.

Gallatin lost a tough five-set match to Eminence, Tuesday, then followed with losses at Henry and Walton-Verona.

Nevertheless, the team is fighting hard and the attitude is positive.

"We've had two good practices in a row," said Gognat. "We're working hard and having fun. I've noticed the seniors taking a bigger role in helping the younger players."

Coach Gognat coached at Pleasure Ridge Park in Louisville, last year.

As for Gallatin County, he said: "I love it here. I grew up in Cambridge, Ohio, where the town shuts down for sports. After Louisville, I'm happy to find that again."

Murray For SCHOOL Board

Election time is upon us once again and I believe it is time for change in our school system. We need to get our priorities straight. Although new facilities are vital to our community and shows our commitment to our children's future, we are facing economic times and as many of us have done we need to find ways to cut back in areas that are not as important at this point and focus first on the tools and resources our children need to achieve today. This is why I will oppose any tax increases. We need to show our fiscal responsibility first, then our community will support us.

I want to get back to the basics of using the chalkboard. Let's use chalk instead of the permanent marker that we have used for so long, so that when we make mistakes, we can back up and admit it and do what is best for our children.

We can look at the present time of Gallatin County Schools as a blank chalkboard. Together we can begin to write on that chalkboard to come up with a plan for our children's future. Knowing at times we may need to use a eraser to get it right, does not mean defeat or failure, but it means we are one step closer to reaching our goals. When we can admit our mistakes, it is only now that we can move our school system forward, for at this point we are truly working together.

Special points of interest:

- ☺Kid's First
- ☺ No tax Increases
- ☺ Get Back to the Basics
- ☺ The People's school
- ☺ Equip our students
- ☺ Reaching our goals

I believe we need to equip our students right here in our county, so I would like to see MORE academic choices allowing students to meet state requirements, while learning lessons taught in subjects that they believe may be their career choices. By doing this, they will be more college ready with goals set for their future.

- I will commit to keeping students first when making difficult decisions.
- I will bring a willingness to listen and respond to our community in a way that brings us together, to work to see that our children receive the best our district has to offer, not only now, but in the future.
- I want to create an environment within our school system that is open to our community. A place that parents can come and not only feel, but know that we are here for them and their family.
- I believe our first priority should be to put our students first. Our children today are facing many different challenges and we need to teach our children that the choices they make everyday will ultimately affect their future.

I see a school system with so much potential and hard working faculty that has come a long ways for our children and I think we have so much further to go. The future of Gallatin County Schools depends on the individuals that prepare for it today. Thank you for your Support!!!

We have to realize that every student's needs will not be the same and not every parent's ability to see their children succeed will be the same. We need to have the ability to be attentive to our community and work with our community. After all, it is their school system and their taxes that give us the honor and opportunity to work with their children.

"We need to be there for our Children, to build a relationship to the point that our Children know that their daily life is important to us. That their problems, big or small, will not be their problem alone, but we will be there to carry that burden with them."

Here's what some of our friends have been doing lately:

Shirley Chipman attended the Saturday wedding of Megan Sampson and Chris Autry at the Creation Museum in Petersburg, KY, accompanied by Lanette and Jama Morrison and Mae Wallace. Shirley's Sunday dinner guests were Lanette Morrison as well as Derina, Savannah, and Austaun Doolin. On Sunday afternoon, Shirley and Mae Wallace attended the 50th wedding anniversary party for Shupie and Dorothy Sullivan. CONGRATULATIONS, SHUPIE AND DOROTHY!

Holly Kosir of Nashville, Tennessee; Josh Davis of Glencoe, and Malinda Weldon and Derek Weisbecker of Warsaw, enjoyed a long weekend in Pensacola Florida. They had fun in the sand and sun!

Alex Weldon left last Friday for Milwaukee, Wisconsin to visit her mother, sister and brother. Unfortunately, Alex's mother suffered a broken hip on Saturday. Surgery was successfully performed and her mother is recovering.

Recently, Bev Andrew and her cousins rented cabins for several days at Butler Park for the 4th annual AYRES cousin reunion. Attending were Rick Andrew, Diane Mason & Corey, of Virginia; Donna & Jeff Barlow, Randy, Robby, Felicia, Ryan & Riley of Tennessee; Bobby Ayres & Beth of Kansas; Amanda Ayres, Mark, Mason, Zach & Amelia of Missouri; Karen Schellhom of New Jersey; Debbie Riddle and Scarlet Hall of Florence; and Robert G. Ayres & Phyllis of Bedford. It is the one time of year that Robert has all four of his children and all his grandchildren together at the same time. Good food, music from Jeff, and fun was had by all.

Rae McEntyre continued her exploration of Kentucky state historic sites, last Saturday, with a trip to Blue Licks Battlefield, site of the last Revolutionary War battle. There were a number of programs, including period demonstrations such as basket weaving and clothes washing. The day ended with a re-enactment of the battle.

Mary Jane Day and her son, Randy, attended the Thunder Bay concert on the river, Saturday evening. She reports that she thoroughly enjoyed the rock and roll and country music and the wonderfully cool weather. Also attending were Wayne and Trudy Rassman, Barbara Finck and her son, Mark; Steve Daniels, and Mary Rae Mattox, all of whom said they had a great time.

Patsy Brown spent most of her week helping me, and then went to Madison on Saturday afternoon with her friend, Ruthie, to do some shopping. They had lunch at Bob Evans to celebrate Ruthie's birthday. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, RUTHIE!

Katie and Hardin Lowe spent Friday and Saturday evenings at the Carrollton home of John and Carolyn Glauber, celebrating Katie's class reunion. She reports there were about 30 fellow classmates in attendance. They played croquet, had a lovely dinner, and simply enjoyed being together and catching up. Katie and Hardin celebrated their fifty-first wedding anniversary on Sunday with their children and grandchildren. Celebrating the occasion were son and daughter-in-law Nate and Letha Lowe; daughter and son-in-law, Lora Beth and Jeff Sadler, and their daughter C.J. Their son, Jason Lowe, dropped in later in the day with a belated birthday gift for Hardin. CONGRATULATIONS KATIE AND HARDIN!

Betty and Boyd Lionberger enjoyed a Saturday afternoon visit from their daughter and son-in-law, Julie and Tim Hamilton, granddaughter, Hannah; granddaughter, Kristina Turner and her husband, Rob; and great-granddaughter, Aleigha. The Lionbergers attended the fiftieth wedding anniversary celebration of Shupie and Dorothy Sullivan on Sunday afternoon.

Four of our friends have just returned from a fabulous trip to Alaska, which we will talk about in segments as we follow them on their way to Seattle where they boarded the cruise ship. It was a very long and exciting trip with beautiful scenery and numerous events to relate, so here is the first submission:

Dave and Diana Bradley, with Rick and April Meyung, recently returned from a 13,000 mile, 11-week trip to Alaska. They left on May 17th in a truck pulling a 5th-wheel camper, which they shared for the trip of a lifetime. They planned the camping trip with sights along the way, so their adventure included many sections of both the USA and Canada. Their first stop was the Amana Colonies, located in Iowa. The Amana Colonies originally started as a German religious commune. They were self-supporting for 89 years in the 1800's, and now the houses are tourist shops. Many of the shops have observation areas where one can watch the workings of the woolen mill, woodworking shop, and the blacksmith/cutlery. Their next stop was the Great Platte River Road Archway Monument in Kearney, Nebraska. The archway is built over I-80, and contains a museum of life-sized dioramas depicting the westward journey, starting with wagon trains and ending with the modern-day automobile. North Platte, Nebraska has the largest train yard in the world, the 2,850-acre Bailey Train Yard, which handles 139 trains and 14,000 cars daily. This town is also the home of Buffalo Bill Cody's ranch, called Scout's Rest. The Bradleys and Meyungs stopped in Salt Lake City to view the famous Great Salt Lake, which is shrinking due to all the minerals deposited in the lake from the three rivers flowing into it. While at Salt Lake City, they also visited the Kennecott Copper Mine, the world's largest open-air mine. They also toured the famous Temple Square, the home of the famous Mormon Tabernacle Choir, which also includes many huge buildings as well as the massive Temple. While there, they were delighted to hear a concert on the 11,623-pipe organ that accompanies the choir. This delightful journey will be continued next week.

Dave and Diana Bradley and Rick and April Meyung recently returned to Warsaw after a trip to Alaska. While passing through the town of Watson Lake in Yukon, Canada, they placed a handpainted 'Warsaw, KY' sign in the world famous Sign Post Forest. This "forest" is Watson Lake's best known attraction. It was started in 1942 by a homesick American GI when he was working on the construction of the Alaska Highway. The Sign Post Forest now has 70,000 signs from all over the world.

My Big Brother

You taught me lots of things; I learned a lot I didn’t know

But you forgot to teach me one last thing, how to let you go.

I know you didn’t mean to leave, sometimes we have no choice

I miss being your little sister, I can still see you standing there,

Shaking your head, I can even hear your voice saying, “Amy Catherine,” whenever I do something that worried you.

If God could grant me one last wish, I’d wish to say, “I love you,” and “goodbye,” before you were given to the sky.

You always meant a lot to me, I could never love you loss

I now know it’s true when they say, “He only takes the best.”

We miss you and love you

February 20, 1961 - August 22, 2011

It has been a year since God took you away, but words cannot express the pain and loss of not hearing your phone calls or seeing you in your truck about every day.

You were the only one who still called me “Mommy”. I still cannot say goodbye, my son, because I will always love you and miss you.

Love you,
“Mommy”

Planting by the Signs

by Phil Case

If you're planting your fall garden by the phases of the moon and signs of the zodiac, here's the information for this week.

The moon is in the light phase now and will continue there until the next full moon – the second of August and called the “Blue Moon” – on Friday, Aug. 31, 9:58 a.m. During this period be planting only above-ground producers in the unprotected garden from the list below.

A look at the signs finds us on the first day today (Wednesday) of a three-day rule by the very fertile sign Scorpio (the secrets). This continues through Friday with the moon, as we've established, in the light phase. Scorpio is one of the four most fertile signs.

While according to the list we're a week past the last safe day for things like bush beans, if you want to plant for a late harvest I wouldn't hesitate since this has been something of an abnormal year weatherwise. And if it were to frost and kill them all, then all you've invested is a couple of bucks worth of bean seed since your garden is likely ready to plant anyway.

Then beginning Saturday and on through the rest of August we find out monthly series of so-so signs which aren't good or bad, just so-so.

Saturday and Sunday are under the influence of Sagittarius (the thighs; Capricorn (the knees) then rules Monday through Wednesday and the series concludes with Aquarius (the legs) in force on Thursday and Friday, Aug. 30-31. The light moon will rule this entire time until 9:58 a.m. on Aug. 31 so above-ground planting will be in order.

What to still plant

Here again is the list from “Home Vegetable Gardening in Kentucky” showing how long you can continue to plant these veggies in the unprotected garden, statistically speaking anyway.

As I discussed last week and mentioned above, if the weather continues as it has all year, what if we could add three weeks to each of these “last plant” days? And remember I didn't make up this “three weeks” thing. It's what the experts said.

A while longer: beets, bush beans, rutabaga

Through August: Bibb lettuce, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, Chinese cabbage, collards, endive, kale, kohlrabi, mustard greens, snow peas, turnips, turnip greens

Through September: leaf lettuce, radishes, spinach

In the protected garden, planting and harvest can go on for some time to come. You can use polyethylene row covers to extend the harvest of frost-sensitive crops such as tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers. The row cover traps heat and protects the plants from killing frosts but beware that on warm, sunny days the row cover must be ventilated to protect plants from excess heat.

For more information, review “Home Vegetable Gardening in Kentucky,”

CRP Participants May Request Authorization to Conduct Emergency Haying or Grazing of CRP Acres

The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) announces the opportunity for Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) participants to request authorization to conduct emergency haying or grazing on specific CRP acres. Eligible producers who are interested in applying for approval to conduct Emergency Haying or Grazing of CRP land located in Kentucky must request and obtain individual written approval from FSA before any haying or grazing starts. Participants will be assessed a 10 percent payment reduction on their annual rental payment for the acres actually hayed or grazed.

Interested CRP participants are required to submit a request to FSA and obtain a modified conservation plan to hay and/or graze under emergency provisions. The same acres may not be hayed and grazed under the same emergency designation. Emergency haying or grazing is not allowed within 120 feet of any stream or water body. Specified portions of each field or contiguous fields must be left or grazed with limited stock for wildlife purposes.

Emergency haying or grazing is restricted to specific practices that are 12 months past being determined as fully established by the agency. Participants shall not start any haying or grazing activity until individual written approval is received for the CRP contract request. Approved haying authorization will end not later than August 31st. Approved grazing authorization will end not later than September 30th.

To take advantage of the emergency haying and grazing provisions, approved participants can use the CRP acreage for their own livestock or may grant another livestock producer use of the CRP acreage for the purpose of haying or grazing.

For more information and to request approval for emergency haying or grazing of CRP acres, contact the local FSA Service Center that administers the CRP contract.

Opportunity for Continuous CRP Enrollment of Highly Erodible Cropland
The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) announced that continuous sign-up for the Highly Erodible Land (HEL) Initiative under the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) started on July 23, 2012. Kentucky received a total allocation of 39,400 acres to enroll in the HELI CRP program. Offers will be accepted until either the state acreage allocation limit is reached or September 30, 2012 whichever occurs first.

This initiative will accept offers with an erosion rate of at least 20 tons per acre per year for new cropland or CRP acres that expire on September 30, 2012; however, existing grass stands that are not considered expiring CRP will not be considered eligible for enrollment. Eligible cropland must also have a history of being cropped 4 out of 6 years, 2002 through 2007. Eligible CRP contracts set to expire on September 30, 2012, may be offered for consideration and approved contracts will become effective October 1, 2012. The contract duration is also 10 years.

For more information, please contact your local FSA Office or visit <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/crp>.

Ask Doctor Dirt...

By David Hull

Dear Doctor Dirt,

My half-runner green beans just won't make any beans. The vines look good and healthy, they bloomed good, just no beans! Did I get some bad seed? Thanks.

H.K. Sanders

Dear H.K.,
Nope, there was nothing wrong with your seed. But there was something wrong with the weather; it was just too stinkin' hot! Especially during the time the beans were flowering. Unlike many green bean varieties, half-runner blossoms are very sensitive to extreme heat. And buddy, did we ever have extreme heat. The high temperatures hurt the reproductive parts of the flowers which stops fertilization and keeps the plants from setting fruits. I had one guy tell me he planted them three times with the same results, no beans. He blamed the seed too. Just a word or two about "bad seed"; it's a rarity. If I had a nickel for every time somebody told me they got ahold of some bad seed, I'd have a new Jeep by now. If you plant a seed and it sprouts and comes up, then it's good seed. Heck, I've seen my wife plants seeds that she'd kept in the fridge for five or more years and it come up. It's pretty easy to test your own seed. Just wet a paper towel, line ten or twenty seeds along one side of it, roll it up, put it in a baggy and place the bag in a dark drawer. After the recommended number of days to germination, unroll the paper towel and see how many seeds sprouted. If few, or none sprouted, then you've got problems. It's called a rag-doll test.

Testing for Toxins in Grain:

In drought years like this one, corn and other grains have a higher probability of becoming infected with fungal toxins called mycotoxins, in particular Alfatoxin. Mycotoxins can affect human and livestock health, and also can disrupt grain marketing.

If you are considering buying grain from an individual for the purpose of feeding livestock, wildlife, or yourself, you may consider having the grain tested for mycotoxins. For information on how to have grain tested, call the Gallatin County Extension Service at 567-5481.

Doctor Dirt is really David Hull, Gallatin County Extension Agent for Agriculture. If you have farm or garden questions for the good doctor, stop by or call the Extension Office at 567-5481. Or, you can email him at dhull@uky.edu.

Homemakers Ice Cream Social

For those of you who are not familiar with the Gallatin County Extension Homemakers Association, we invite you to an ice cream social on Monday, August 27, 7:00 p.m. at the Extension Office where you will have an opportunity to get to know us better. We are a non-profit, volunteer affiliate of the University of Kentucky, Department of Agriculture and the Gallatin County Extension Service located at 395 U.S. 42 West, Warsaw.

Your friends at the Extension Service are your link to the Land Grant University system. In Kentucky, that's the University of Kentucky. A Homemakers club is a terrific place to meet people and make new friends, learn new skills and ways to make your life easier and less stressful. We have many volunteer opportunities to appeal to everyone.

If you like what you see and decide to become an Extension Homemaker, you will get the latest information on consumer topics for you, your family and your home. You will belong to an organized group that addresses issues such as community involvement, family life, youth development, international and diversity awareness, the environment, food and nutrition, health and management. All this for only $6.00 a year! Check us out online at <http://ces.ca.uky.edu/gallatin/FamilyConsumerSciences> or www.facebook.com/GallatinCountyFCS (you do not have to be logged onto facebook to see the page).

Just prior to the Ice Cream Social a community forum will be held at 6:00 p.m. to discuss fund raising ideas for the Blessings in a Backpack program. "Blessings in a Backpack" identifies chronically hungry students and packs backpacks with easy to prepare meals and snacks to have over the weekend. Pizza and pop will be provided at this 6:00 p.m. community forum that will also be held at the Extension Office.

The Fall Pumpkin Festival planning committee will also meet on Monday evening at 5:00 p.m. at the Extension Office.

Come and see what we're all about on Monday, August 22nd, 7:00 p.m. Gallatin County Extension Office meeting room. We'll have four freezers full of homemade ice cream and plenty of cake for dessert. Now doesn't that sound like a treat? If you need more information or would like to let us know that you plan to stop by, please call 859-567-5481. We would love to have YOU join us and make a difference. All current members are reminded to attend on Monday evening to receive new year materials.

4-H Awards Banquet

The 4-H Awards Banquet is fast approaching, so if you were in 4-H last year and plan to attend the awards banquet, please turn in your form to the extension office by Friday, August 31st. Forms are available in the 4-H newsletter as well as the 4-H bulletin boards located in the middle and upper elementary schools and at the extension office. The banquet will be held on Saturday, September 8th at 2:00 p.m. at the Gallatin County Extension Office.

Community Forum

At 6:00 on Monday evening, August 27th, we would like to invite you to participate in a Community Forum. This forum group, consisting of teenagers and adults, will discuss future plans for raising money for Gallatin County School's "Blessings in a Backpack" program.

We hope through the brainstorming efforts of this group to develop fun, innovative ways to fund this project.

The extension service received a $2,000 Youth/Adult Partnership grant last year and again this year. In receiving this grant, we have the responsibility of adults and young people working together to generate more money for the program. We desire not only to raise funds, but also raise awareness of the needs of our children.

We value your participation with this project and hope you will join us at the Gallatin County Extension office for this meeting of the minds.

Please call 567-5481 if you plan to attend as we will provide a light dinner for everyone. Following the community forum, is the annual Homemaker's Ice Cream Social. Hope you can attend!

Looking at the past

Paul Kinman, of Carrollton, showed his sons, Rylan (center) and Grayson, a 1928 Ford Speedster at Saturday's Bobby Chapman Memorial Car Show at Warsaw's riverfront park. The car was restored by Jim Frye who lives in Dannville and spends much of the summer on his houseboat which is docked at Pier 99 Marina in Warsaw. Frye also had a pristine 1929 Ford Model A in the show. Photo by Kelley Warnick
